

Quality Policy

The aim of the Directors of Hewson Consulting Engineers is to ensure that the services provided by the company meet or exceed the quality expectations of our clients and other interested parties. In addition to ensuring that the company meets all statutory and professional obligations, the Directors recognise the importance of maintaining a positive and rewarding working environment for all staff.

To this end, the company has established a Quality Management System which complies with ISO 9001:2015. Documented processes consistent with the company's purpose and direction cover activities critical to the standard of service provided. Management and staff operate the Quality Management System which includes mechanisms for continuously seeking improvement. The on-going effectiveness of the system and its application are the subject of periodic formal management reviews and independent audits.
